Jerry Jemmott's

"Make Your Groove Happen!"

A Music Players' Workshop Taught by the Legendary Bassist

Legendary bassist Jerry Jemmott, a.k.a. "The Groovemaster," was one of the architects of the Atlantic Records and Muscle Shoals Soul sound. A recipient of the 2001 Bass Player Magazine's "Lifetime Achievement Award," Mr. Jemmott has performed/recorded with such legends as Aretha Franklin, Ray Charles, B.B. King, Nina Simone, Roberta Flack, Lionel Hampton, Bette Midler, George Benson, Wilson Pickett, and The Rascals among others. He played on the original recordings of great hits, such as "Think," "The Thrill Is Gone" and "People Got to Be Free."

Jerry's career now spans six decades in which he has also arranged and composed music for films and Off-Broadway shows. Now a resident of Madison County he plays with the many celebrated local artist and tours throughout the U.S. & abroad with Southern Soul & Blues icon, Gregg Allman. In addition to making music, Jerry strongly believes in the importance of music education and inspiring new musicians. As a result of this, he presents interactive improvisational workshops and has written a number of articles and books geared toward music students and enthusiasts.
